2018-19 Donations

As you will know, the Society's day-to-day running costs are met by the BCS*. So we do not ask members for a formal subscription. We do, however, ask members to consider making a voluntary donation to support other work which we do.

For example, in 2018, we made two substantial donations. The first to the cost of moving and displaying the rebuilt Turing-Welchman Bombe in its new home at The National Museum of Computing (TNMoC) at Bletchley Park. Our second was to the EDSAC Replica Project, currently nearing completion, towards the costs of preparing and providing educational materials to support it. These two grants have made substantial inroads into our reserves which we need to refresh if we are to continue the good work. www.computerconservationsociety.org/donations_policy.htm is our Donations Policy.

The suggested sum of £15 or more has remained unchanged since the Society was founded in 1989, but many members generously donate larger sums which are always appreciated.

There are two ways of making a donation —

You may choose to donate online by BACS transfer at <https://forms.bcs.org/ccs-donation/>. Unfortunately, if you donate in this way the CCS has no visibility of your gift. Please tell us that you have donated and in what amount by sending an email to the CCS Treasurer at arthur.dransfield@bcs.org so that we can thank you.

Alternatively, please complete the form below and send it with a cheque to the CCS Treasurer. We will of course, acknowledge receipt.

On behalf of the Committee, may I thank all those able to support your Society in this very tangible way.
